SUIT TO PARTITION $8,000,000 ESTATE

Dean Hoffman's Heirs Start a Friendly Action to Sell Huge Holdings.

WILL BREAK ALL RECORDS

Fifth Avenue Parcels and Others May Be Worth Double the $8,000,-000 Assessments.

Papers were filed in the County Clerk's of real property in the city. The heirs want the money that's tied up in the various properties, and if the action is successful. and there is no reason to doubt that it will be, some of the most expensive real estate in the city will be offered for sale at auction within a few months.

There are twenty-three separate parcels in the estate involved in the proceedings, and they are situated on leading streets and avenues given to office buildings, wholesale mercantile structures and to retail trade. Eleven parcels alone come within the area of the so-called Fifth avenue section.

According to the records filed the action is brought by Samuel Verplanck Hoffman against Louisa N. Hoffman, the Farmers oan and Trust Company and William H. Harris. These are executors and trus-tees of Eugene A. Hoffman and other members of the Hoffman family. Samuel Hoffman is a son of the late Dean Hoffman, and he is acting as well for his sister Mrs. J. Henry Watson, and for the three children of another sister, the late Mrs. Thomas W. Nickerson. One of these grandchildren is an infant under the law and it is because of this that resort had to be taken to the courts. Permission must be granted by the Supreme Court before the sale can be held.

This property has been tied up since 1902, when Dean Hoffman died. Besides being a collector of high class real estate he was for many years dean of the General Theological Seminary. Instead of himself partitioning his property by will he decreed that all his holdings should be kept intact during the lifetime of his widow. Mrs. Hoffman died late last year and when her will was probated it was found that a partition of the property would be necessary. All the heirs and their representatives have come to agreement in the matter so that the suit will be entirely friendly

This estate is entirely separate and distinct from the C. F. Hoffman estate .

What the value of the property is can only be told after the sale. It is assessed by the city for taxation at about $8,000,000 and its actual value may run from that to almost double the amount. Dean Hoffman inherited most of his property from his father, Samuel Verplanck Hoffman. At the elder Hoffman's death his property was equally divided between two sons. the other of whom was C. F. Hoffman. C. F. Hoffman's estate owns much property adjoining the Dean Hoffman holdings and numerous other properties, inings and numerous other properties, including the land on which the Hoffman House stood for many years.

Considerable of Dean Hoffman's property has been leased in the last few years on long term leases to concerns which have erected large buildings with their own funds. In a number of cases, therefore, the estate owns the land but not the building. Among the more notable properties in the partition suit are the Rogers Peet building at Broadway and Warren street, the Bryant Park Arcade land at the street, the Bryant Park Arcade land at the same and the signature of Woodhouse and turned it over to one of the Devines. The signature was forged to the check for $8,250, and as Errico was known about the larving National Exchange Bank he cashed the check. As the Woodhouse firm had only several hundreds under the deposit at the time the matter came to Mr. Woodhouse's attention.

HEARING ON THE "BRICK TRUST."

Secretary Says Unsatisfactory Conditions Forced Consolidation.

There was a hearing before Magistrate reschi in the Yorkville police court yesterday to determine if sufficient legal evidence can be obtained to take proceedings against the so-called brick trust Frank Denoyles, secretary of the Greater New York Brick Company, was in court on a subpæna. Assistant District Attorney Millard Ellison was there to

Mr. Denoyles was the only witness examined at the session. He had been asked to bring the company books along and he had in court the minute book of the meetings, the directors' book and several other big books relating to stock certificates and other business of the company. He said that his ancestors had been making bricks in Westchester since 1758. office yesterday announcing the beginning of a suit to dissolve the Dean Hoffman estate, one of the largest holders of real property in the city. The heirs want sources of supply.

Mr. Denoyles said that before the brick-makers came together the brick business was very unsatisfactory. Competition was so keen that bricks were sometimes sold for less than cost.

It was not until June, 1910, that the various concerns were incorporated. The witness said that it was so arranged that witness said that it was so arranged that

ARREST MAN AS FORGER IN IRVING BANK CASE

Pinkertons and City Detectives Say Prisoner Is James Devine, Fugitive.

Pinkerton detectives and three Central Office men arrested yesterday a man who said he is James C. Elliott, but who, the police say, is James Devine. Devine, they say is the man who forged the signature of Daniel A. Woodhouse, a manufacturer of fire appliances at 50 West Broadway, to a check for $8,250 on the on the Irving National Exchange Bank which was cashed by Chester L. Errico, a former bookkeeper and cashier for the Woodhouse Manufacturing Company on December 28 last. Errico was caught by Detective Frank Allen in Boston a week ago and brought back to this city Joseph Devine, Jim's brother, was arrested with a girl named May Smith early on the morning on March 13 in an apartment off Central Park West in 108th street When the detectives broke in on the couple Justice O'Gorman Reversed in two shots were fired from inside.

The pair were wanted in connection with the case, but Joseph Devine, who also gave his name as James C. Elliott, wasn't the Devine wanted for the actual forgery of the signature.

Pinkerton detectives got after the brother and found that he had sailed on the Morgan liner Antilles on March 9 the Morgan liner Antilles on March 9 for New Orleans. He landed on March 13, and the next day he left for New York. He landed yesterday and was arrested by Donnelly and Graham of the Pinkertons and Central Officemen Lennon, Riley and Allen, and is charged with the forgery. His picture is B5321 in the rogues gallery.

Errico had the signature of Woodhouse and turned it over to one of the Devines.

COURT DOES NOT

Suit Over Hypothecated Standard Oil.

POWER OF ATTORNEY GOOD

Though One Banker Says He Gave It to His Brother-in-Law for Another Purpose.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court rejected yesterday as incredible the testimony of John V. Ritts, vice-president and executive officer of the Butler County National Bank at Butler, Pa., and of his brother-in-law, William S. Blakeslee, assistant cashier of the bank, concerning the hypothecating of twentyfive shares of Standard Oil stock belongstock.

Nichols & Co. horrowed $7,500 on the stock from Talcott and when they failed to pay the loan Talcott applied to the Standard Oil Company to transfer the stock to him, but the company refused, exhibiting a notice from Blakeslee not to transfer it.

Mr. Ritts testified that previously he had Rocco, charged with maltreating a sixteen-year-old girl, that he gave the jury a sharp rebuke and disqualified them from further service during the week.

"I don't know," he told the jury. "how

"The message came to me at Butler, and we were having a run on our banks there at the time. I was just preparing to go to Pittsburg and went there and got some stocks from my box and mailed them from Pittsburg, including this Standard Oil stock. Then I went back to Butler and found there a further message from New York saying in very strong terms that hell was to pay in Wall Street and I had better come on and take up my stocks." He went to New York and arranged to have the Standard Oil stock used to protect his account.

Ritts testified that in the summer of 1907, "when the panic was on and stocks

Ritts testified that in the summer of 1907, "when the panic was on and stocks were tumbling. Mr. Blakeslee, who was talking about buying an automobile, said, 'If I could make a little turn I believe I would buy an automobile.'" Ritts told Blakeslee that he was going to buy some Greene Cananea and felt that if Blakeslee would buy 1,000 shares "inside of a year's time you will have made money enough to buy an automobile." Blakeslee finally told Ritts to buy 1,000 shares for him, Blakeslee gave him the Standard Oil certificate "as security for me in a measure." and when he bought the Cananea stock he intended to give 1,000 shares to Blakeslee. "It was never delivered to him, and he did not know that I bought it." said Ritts.

BEEF TRADE'S "BIG SIX."

Companies Control Beef Trade.

The State Food Commission which is investigating the high cost of living in New York city found yesterday that the people of this city depend entirely on six big concerns for their supply of beef. These firms are known as the "Big Six" and from them the butchers of the city get and from them the butchers of the city get their supplies. The beef prices are said to be fixed outside of New York State. A representative of Swift & Co. gave Chairman Osborn a statement showing that the average profit on a carload of beef is 1 per cent. This profit was on an investment of $2,221 for one week.

Joseph Conron of Conron Bros., dealers in poultry eggs and butter, testified that the cost of handling poultry was about 4 cents a pound. Poultry that cost 12 cents a pound in the West must be sold here for 16 cents, he said.
